1. [ ] LIAISON Called John O. Marsh, Counsellor to the President, to alert him to the fact we were taking to the Hill today the new format of the Intelligence Check List for Congress and I explained to him a little of the background that caused us to establish this publication. I also offered to put Marsh on distribution for a copy of the document if he wished. Marsh said the idea sounded good to him and said he would, indeed, like to be put on distribution.

3. [ ] LIAISON In our meeting with Clark McFadden, General Counsel, Senate Armed Services Committee, this morning, he said he and Ed Braswell, Counsel, would like us to keep them informed on briefings which we provide various members of the Senate on topics which may be controversial on the Hill especially on subjects such as SALT. I mentioned that we normally advise him or Braswell in any such instances but we would be especially alert to this in view of his request.

McFadden also mentioned that he would be taking up the subject of the malpractice legislation very shortly and he was hopeful that he could do something by way of including the Agency in this legislation. I told him we had prepared some back-up material on this and we would be getting it to him in the next day or two.
